PROJECTS AND REFERENCES-
UNDERSTANDING THE EXPECTATIONS

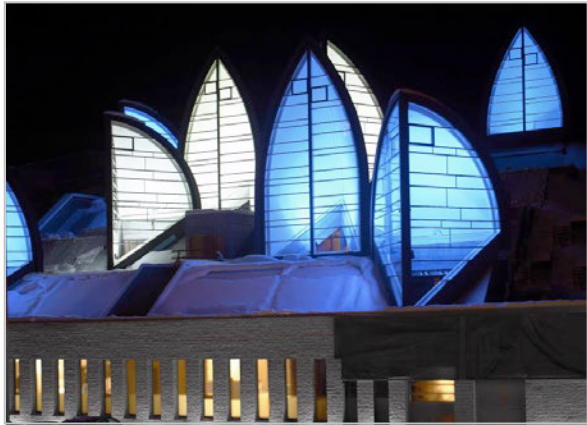

With a long history of experiences gathered from working with contractors, architects and developers from all parts of the world, we have learnt the importance in understanding their expectations and needs.

When starting a project we aim not only to execute the take-off, but to understand and express through our work the spirit and concept behind.

One of our key-words for a successful result is communication and mutual respect. We believe that each project no matter size or location is of great importance and need our full attention.

Having worked with architects such Mario Botta, Hans Hollein, Norman Forster, Aldo Rossi, Helmut Vorreiter, Ludwig Pederiva and Alexey

Morozov - we feel we have learnt important lessons - and that our greatest reference is their full satisfaction with the final result achieved together
